SAD #44 scores drop in statewide 4th-grade exams

In general, this past year's 4th-graders in SAD #44 did not do as well as their predecessors the year before on the state's achievement test. The tests are given annually in the 4th, 8th and 11th grades to test the achievement of students as they progress through the school system.

This past year's 4th-grade scores show less achievement than the previous year's 4th-grade scores in the fields of reading, math, science, social studies and humanities. Only in writing are this year's scores somewhat better than last year's.

Nevertheless, all the scores—with the exception of a low score in the mathematics portion of the exam—are within the range of other 4th-grade scores throughout the state.

SAD #44 Superintendent of Schools Douglas Craig pointed out that one reason for this year's low scores is the fact that 13 of the students tested in the district have learning disabilities. Statewide, 74 percent of those with handicaps were tested and included in the report. In the district, 81 percent of those with handicaps were tested and included in the report.

Additionally, because of the small number of students in the 4th grade this past year—81 were enrolled and 78 were tested and included in the report—there can be great variations in averages.

Comparing the various local schools, Andover Elementary School's 4th-grade students did better than others, on average. (But 4th-graders at nearby Hayes Gray School, in West Paris, continued on Page Two)

ANDOVER'S OLDE HOME DAY, last Saturday, was a huge success. Among the dozens of activities for the thousands who flocked to the festivities was calling. The Andover firefighters battled the hot fires of the barbecue pits to produce 450 chicken dinners, which is what the crowd in the photo above is lined up for. See additional photos on page 4. Renovations begin on Woodstock town office

Woodstock Town Manager Kathleen Mersereau indicated Tuesday that renovations had begun on the new town office. Elwood Wing's firm was undertaking the work and for the time being it consists of lowering the ceilings and insulating above them. This should help protect the building in the winter weather. Mrs. Mersereau said that at present she and the selectmen were not planning on what would be done with the main building of the former school complex because the town had not yet received the deed to the property. All the deeds for the complex will be turned over to the town Aug. 23 where there will be a dedication of the new school building. The present renovations on the former annex are being done with special permission from the school district. At the continued on Page Two

New restaurant planned for Bethel

A group of partners from Massachusetts plans to open a restaurant and lounge on Summer Street, Bethel, at the former George Olson property. The property had at one time been used by Western Maine Supply.

Representing the group, partners Harry Faulkner and Chuck O'Connell appeared before the Board of Selectmen Monday night to outline what they plan to do with the property. On tap is a combination restaurant and lounge, to be called "The Backstage." It will feature live entertainment.

The selectmen advised the prospective restaurateurs—who reportedly have experience managing such enterprises—to pay particular attention to such things as parking, noise control, water and sewer.

There will be a hearing Aug. 17 on applications for licenses and permits for the new establishment. The owners said they hope to have it operational sometime after Thanksgiving.

In other business at Monday night's selectmen's meeting, the board voted 5-0 to amend the sewer department regulations to reflect a $250 fee-in-lieu for expansion of existing multi-family, commercial or industrial users where it is necessary to re-connect to the sewer main.

The board approved a sewer use permit for Garret and Melody Bonema, on Main Street, for a new toilet facility in an expansion of their pottery studio.

The board approved an amendment to the Planning Board's and Appeals Board's plan of procedure making it mandatory that any action be by majority vote of those present and eligible to vote.

A copy of the last town report and a copy of "Newry Profiles," the history of Newry written by Paula Wight in 1980 for the 175th anniversary of the incorporation of the town. They are also writing him a letter to tell him how the town got its name.

A letter was received stating that Newry will receive a block grant in the amount of $1,299.85 from the state to be used for educational purposes. It is to help relieve the tax burden on local taxpayers. It is based on $29.50 per pupil for 33.5 pupils.

Funds received from the state to ease the burden of supporting the schools will be used to reduce the impact of the school assessment levied against the town, the town manager said.

Local residents want to improve access to river

What, if anything, to do about the Androscoggin River was the question tackled by about 15 area residents last Friday night. The opinions ranged from trying to get the paper mills to clean up their discharges further, to getting the state to stock it with more fish, to improving access, to doing nothing. But the majority of those attending the informal session, called by Steve Wight and held at the West Parish Congregational Church, was to improve access to the river.

As Mr. Wight, a Newry selectman, inn owner and member of the state Land Use Regulatory Commission, said, "The Androscoggin River is the best, and the best recognized, [recreational] resource of western Maine."

Most of those in the group seemed to agree, but there was disagreement on how—and even if—to promote it. Jim Yarnell, of Upton, pointed out that the river has been an industrial river for 80 years, and it will take time for people to regard it as a recreational resource.

Kirk Siegel, of Gould Academy, who has been working with the friends of the Merrimack River in cleaning up that 18-mile river, said that working to clean up the Androscoggin and promote it for recreational use has its own drawbacks. "As the river gets cleaner, people are going to want to build on it." Therefore, he urged, it will be necessary for government or environmental groups to obtain land or land covenants to ensure that the public will have access to the river.

That was what Harlan Hutchins seemed to have in mind when he said, "I want public access [but] I don't want to see houses on the shore."

The first priority seemed to be gaining the public access that everyone was talking about. To that end, Rep. Jeff Mills (D-Bethel) suggested the group organize an Androscoggin River corridor committee that could work with state agencies.

Next, the group should get state support to have boat ramps installed in a number of places so that boaters could use the river.

Citizens question strictness of draft site plan ordinance

Bethel's draft site plan review ordinance that will go before voters at an Aug. 25 special town meeting is too strict, according to some citizens who attended last Wednesday night's public hearing. The hearing was the second and last hearing on the draft. The Planning Board, tonight (Wednesday), will make whatever changes it thinks are warranted, and the draft ordinance will then be printed in its final form so that citizens know what they are voting on at the special town meeting.

John Boschetti was one of those at last week's meeting, at the West Bethel Union Church, who thought the draft was too restrictive. Mr. Boschetti, who owns the former health center on Main Street, pointed out that if he wants to open a storage business in his barn he would have to get a permit under the proposed ordinance. And to get this permit, he noted, he could be required to submit maps, a soil survey, a $100 fee, and wait up to three months for a decision.

"You're making the guy who's trying to help his neighbors go through the same rigamarole as the guy who wants to put up 100 condos," he complained to the board members present at the hearing.

Planning Board member Ginger Kelley agreed that turning a residential building into a commercial building would be a change of use and would come under the proposed ordinance. She said, however, that board members are reasonable people and would likely not require a soils test for a use such as commercial storage. "It comes down to the judgment of the Planning Board," she said.

Mr. Boschetti said the ordinance was faulty if it put him at the whim of the continued on Page Three

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The [Maine] Bureau of Public Lands is to be highly commended for their recent Draft Plan for the Mahoosuc Unit in Western Maine. This area has some of the most rugged and fascinating terrain in the northeast and because of this, recreation is an important use of the land. With the bureau's dominant use method, however, timber harvesting is allowed in most areas. There are different visual classifications depending on location that determine how the land will be managed. The bureau worked closely with the Nature Conservancy, the one national preservation group that seems to know what they are talking about. The plan is well explained, easy to read and not too wordy. Things are not made to appear different than what they are and a fortune was not spent to come up with the plan. The management policy is flexible, covers well the needs of recreationists, provides for a healthy forest and a healthy wildlife population. Groups that use the forest understand that it is everybody's forest. Sound theories and not politics seem to determine policy. The management and policy makers of the U.S. Forest Service could learn a lot from the Maine Bureau of Public Lands.

Considering today's popularity of public official bashing, it is nice to be able to point out to the public people who are doing good work.

Former resident proclaimed 'Honorary Maine Role Model'

Marjorie Doyen Awaik is featured in a new book as Honorary Maine Role Model because of her personal achievements and excellence in rural communications. Marjorie Awaik has written about Bethel and My Grandfather. Marjorie's ancestors are recognized as frontier settlers and were one of the original 106 families of the 1st Encomendation of Bethel in 1790. The book is published by VOICES for Blind and includes the original creative writing efforts of 59 handicapped authors.

VOICES is located on the Songo Pond Road; it is a private, non-profit agency serving print handicapped individuals in all 50 states and 27 foreign countries. VOICES' main thrust is to publish and distribute audio media materials to people unable to read normal print materials. In fiscal year 1986-87, VOICES provided free audio library services to 1,150 disabled Maine residents and over 900 handicapped people in other areas. VOICES issued over 30,000 library tape loans to audio library patrons via mail order. VOICES estimates that 4,475 Maine residents will receive over 60,000 tape loans in fiscal year 1987-88 because

As I see it . . .

Satellite dishes: Important line for rural residents

For many Maine families, satellite dishes represent the only access to television. From the hundreds of letters I have received from the people of Maine, I understand the importance of these dishes, which allow owners to receive satellite transmitted television programs. In the 100th congress I have co-sponsored legislation to protect the rights of satellite dish television viewers.

In remote parts of Maine, as well as other rural areas of the United States, many communities lie beyond the range of broadcast television signals, and are not served by cable television. For them satellite transmissions are the only link to television news, entertainment, and the mainstream of national events.

Currently, there is a concern over the cable television industry's scrambling of satellite-transmitted cable programming. Once a program is scrambled, a special decoding device is needed for a program to be watched.

No one challenges the right of the cable industry to retain ownership of the television programs or to charge a fee for viewing such programs. However, I share the concern of satellite dish owners that access to scrambled television signals should be available to all those who want it, and at a reasonable cost.

Like millions of satellite dish owners nationwide, Maine citizens have expressed fears about not enough decoding devices being made readily available to meet demand. The prospect of different channels using different scrambling codes, requiring different decoders for different channels, is also great concern.

Entitled "The Satellite Television Fair Marketing Act," the legislation which I have co-sponsored would require the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to issue uniform standards for scrambling. It would require cable programmers to make satellite-transmitted cable television programming available to home satellite antenna users.

The Federal Trade Commission would be required to investigate program pricing and distribution, to make sure the satellite television programming market is developing competitively.

The cable industry would need to allow for the sale of decoding devices by multiple non-cable distributors. Cable programmers would not be allowed to discriminate among different distributors offering similar distribution services.

The FCC also would need to begin rule-making to facilitate "to the maximum possible extent" the provision of broadcast network television to remote rural areas.

At the same time, the legislation would provide for criminal penalties for persons who interfere with satellite transmissions.

Obviously, the legislation involves complex issues of law and technology. However, the letters to me from ordinary Maine citizens reflect a simple plea for equal access and fairness in television viewing.

The law must protect equally the rights of broadcasting networks, cable programmers, and the viewing public. It also must preserve the vital communication links which help bring us together as a state, and a nation.

VOICES services include audio newspapers on cassette tape, recorded textbooks, two music lending libraries and a Tape Pal Exchange Club for eligible consumers. VOICES has established a Rural Media Network to publish and distribute Electronic Literature catalogues listing over 10,000 audio book titles available through the network.

VOICES has just recently published an anthology in rural communications titled To See a Man About a Horse as written by 50 handicapped authors; most authors are from Maine. The book is dedicated to the memory and lessons taught by Helen Keller. The anthology includes poems, short stories, biographies and special articles of general interest to all ages; some items are illustrated and others include photos of the authors. Two Maine authors personally knew Helen Keller and describe the influence this famous blind woman had on their lives. In addition to Marjorie Awaik, three other Maine authors have been designated for special awards. The anthology also includes a Directory for Independent Living listing resources, services and suppliers of special products for people with special needs.

Historic research survey of Franklin Co. underway

The first month of a 12-month project to survey and document the historic architecture of Franklin County, Maine, has been a successful one. During this period, all of the county's historical organizations and museums were contacted, and several have already agreed to participate in some way in gathering the data on the county's historic architecture. The month of July has also been spent reviewing materials documenting the history of Franklin County's towns, plantations, and townships. From these materials, including the records of the "Franklin County Preservation Program" (1979), up-dated and corrected lists of sites and structures in the county of potential significance for inclusion in the National Register of Historic Places are being compiled. From these lists, an on-site inspection to record data and photograph these structures will take place. It is planned, some time in September. This on-site examination will be conducted by the survey's Project Director, Randall H. Bennett, author of the recently-published Oxford County, Maine: A Guide to Its Historic Architecture.

The Franklin County Historic Survey is sponsored by the Bethel Historical Society, a 700 member local history center devoted to the study of western Maine and the White Mountain region, and funded with the assistance of the Maine Historic Preservation Commission through the U.S. Department of the Interior, National Park Service Grant.

The final product of the Franklin County Survey will be a published inventory of significant architecture in the county; suggestions for the inclusion of particular structures and sites are most welcome, and should be mailed to the Project Director at P.O. Box 12, Bethel, Maine 04217. Suggestions should be accompanied by a statement/explanation of significance, along with photocopies of photographs, plans, maps, or references from primary or secondary sources, if available. In general, these structures of greatest interest for the survey's purposes are buildings which illustrate examples of historic architectural styles valuable for study of a period or method of construction, or a single notable structure representing the work of a master builder, housewright, or architect. Buildings importantly associated with historic personages may also be included in the final published inventory.

However, in SAD #44 there were 56 percent girls and 45 percent boys taking the tests. And whereas girls did better than boys in reading and writing statewide, in the district, boys did better than girls in both categories. In the district, boys also outscored girls in math, science and social studies, losing out to the girls only in humanities. Statewide, boys outperformed girls only in science, with math, social studies and humanities scores about even between the genders. [The Citizen has asked for, but has not received, test scores from SAD #17, and therefore is unable to report anything but the raw scores of Agnes Gray School. The rest of the SAD #17 scores will be reported as they are received.]

The 11th-grade results should be released later in the summer. The 8th-grade results were released in the spring.

Planning Board as to what it might or might not require of him. "I don't think laws should be passed based on the personalities of the members of a board," Mrs. Kelly said. It would be quite impossible to draft an ordinance that would deal with every specific case. She said it was wise to have the ordinance set out general requirements for the permitting process.

She said some cases of change of use would necessitate all the requirements of the permitting process. One such example would be, she said, if Mr. Boschetti wanted to change the use of his barn from residential to agricultural, raising pigs in it.

Town Manager Rodney Lynch said town office personnel would be able to advise an applicant for a permit whether or not they even needed to apply. In cases of changes of use of a property, a minor change would not cause the ordinance to come into play.

Mrs. Kelly said the ordinance would give the town some control over developments in town, even in cases where it was decided by town officials that the ordinance didn't apply.

And former Planning Board member Cathy Newell said that even if a change of use application came before the board, the board could dispose of it easily if it were a simple matter, such as using a barn for commercial storage of non-hazardous articles. "A lot depends on the complexity of the application," she said. Rick Whitney, owner of Maine Line Products, on Main Street, said the parking requirements, the setback requirements, and the sign limitations all seemed like ways of stifling trade. As for the prohibition against neon signs, Mr. Whitney said, "It's been proved that that's a most effective way of advertising, and to take that away from merchants seems unfair."

Similarly, he felt that requiring lot-line setbacks restricted an owner's use of his or her property.

Mrs. Kelly said the ordinance took its tone from the town's Comprehensive Plan, which sets as a goal to maintain the small-town character of Bethel. Mrs. Kelly said the setbacks are one way of controlling development. "That came out as a top priority," she said, "to have lots of green space, to not have development from property line to property line."

Mr. Whitney also questioned the parking requirements, which mandate one parking space for each 300 square feet of display space in a store, plus spaces for employees. "Wouldn't that kill any new development on Main Street," he asked.

The board members said it might, but if the present parking situation were allowed to grow worse, people would stop shopping downtown altogether, and that would kill all development on Main Street. Susan Harrington, who was on the ordinance drafting committee, said, "I find it a pain in the neck already to go to downtown Bethel. It's easier to go to Rumford."

Mrs. Kelly quoted the professional planner who worked with the board on the draft ordinance as saying, "It's about time someone started thinking about a parking garage if we want to develop the downtown area."

She added, "If we come to gridlock, no one will come to the downtown area." Former Planning Board member Dick Hosterman said he didn't feel the parking situation was as bad as some people made it out to be. He said it's usually possible to park on Main Street, although you might have to walk a few yards to get to your destination. He said in a city or a mall, one would not consider this any sort of hardship.

Mrs. Kelly admitted that the draft ordinance might have flaws, but it was important to get something on the books, even if it will be changed. "It's not designed to take care of all the problems for 50 years down the road. It's designed to be a beginning," she said.

And Town Manager Lynch suggested the ordinance should not scare people. "It's a use ordinance, not a location ordinance. It doesn't say you can't do certain things. It says you can do them if you follow certain guidelines."

river without having to cross private property, as is the case presently.

Mr. Mills and Mr. Wight pointed out that a number of potential ramp sites have been looked at in the Bethel area. They also noted that Rumford has just opened a ramp near McDonald's.

Norman Dock reported that the state's stocking program of putting brown trout into the river between the Shelburne dam and the Rumford dam seems to be working, although state officials still want to see more samples of fish to determine the levels of pollutants they are ingesting.

Mr. Wight said, "If there were boat ramps, there'd be more fishing on the river."

Mr. Yarnell cautioned that there might also be more disputes between fishermen, boaters, and rafters.

Mr. Wight suggested, as one method of promoting recreational use of the river, the friends of the river hold an annual river party, such as is held annually on the Kennebec.

A number of those at last Friday's meeting committed themselves to working on a committee to press for a cleaner river—and a more accessible one. Anyone interested in working with the group should call Mr. Wight.

AFTER THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE OUR FOUNDING FATHERS WROTE SOMETHING EVEN MORE IMPORTANT.
"Ten years after the signing of the Declaration of Independence our founding fathers created what historians have called the greatest single document struck off by the hand and mind of man."

Our founding fathers created the Constitution of the United States.
For the first time in history, power was granted by the people to the government, and not by the government to the people.

The freedom unleashed by the Constitution allowed Americans to develop their talents and abilities to the fullest. And attain what is now known the world over as the American Dream.

As we commemorate the Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution, there is no better way for you as an American to reaffirm the principles for which our country stands than to learn more about the Constitution.

The words we live by.
THE CONSTITUTION
The words we live by

To learn more about the Constitution write: Constitution, Washington DC 20540. The Constitution is the Bicentennial of The U.S. Constitution.

HORSEMEN AND HORSEWOMEN added color to the long parade, watched by a large crowd. Riders who won prizes in the parade were: Barbara Breau for her theme horse, Sarah Lizotte for her theme pony, Carol Cooper for the best parade horse and Richard Douglass for his best parade pony. Elizabeth Ladd won a first-place blue ribbon for her parade horse, and Christy Pingley won a similar ribbon for her parade pony. The prize-winning floats were as follows: 1st place "Picnic at Flat Rock"—the Mills family; 2nd place "The Constitution"; 3rd place "Boating." The theme prize went to "The Unbearable Camp." The judges' award went to the Warden's float. Among the antique autos, Bruce Simmons took 1st, while Leon Simmons took 2nd. In the custom autos, Al Legault and Leon Simmons won first place with their 1967 Corvair; second place went to Dennis Richards' 1958 Chevrolet; while Marjorie Murphy took third place with her 1964 Studebaker. Among the 16 fire trucks entered in the parade, Bethel won first place with its 1954 Maxim. The oldest motorized fire truck under its own power belonged to Livermore Falls, while Gorham, N.H., had the best-appearing early vintage fire truck—a 1918 Federal. The oldest hand-pumper in the parade was an 1861 tub, also from Gorham.

The month of July is history. Soon the large yellow bus will be going by to pick up the girls and boys and deliver them to the different schools of learning. We wonder where our summer has gone even if it was hot(1) hot at times.

Our supper at the Community Hall July 25 was a howling success. Every chair was full and we had plenty of food, despite the heat we kept cool with our new ceiling fan and two portable fans.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reidy and their company returned to their respective homes on Sunday. Within the month their daughter's family will move up and live in the trailer. They will love it here.

Joe Kallnowski had three friends from Connecticut visit him over the weekend. They returned home Monday morning in cooler weather.

Mrs. Helen Berthold and four children Angela, Joanne, Christopher and Cynthia, of Saugus, Mass., came Saturday to the home of her sister, Rhoda Labbe, and family. Sunday they went to Story Land and returned to their home Wednesday morning. On the way they were going to North Conway shopping.

Bob and Pat Anderson, Burlington, Mass., came to Vatcher's for dinner Tuesday then Joe went to their trailer at Bridgton, fishing, around supper time and he had a ball with the horned pouts, bass, and white perch. The Andersons tried out their new blueberry rake and froze the berries. They also picked a bushel of string beans. Those things do taste better when you do them yourself, and they look good in the freezer.

As I jot down these items, Mrs. Spencer and three children came with a large trailer load of furniture. Joe Vatcher went to help her and lit the pilot light on the stove.

We were glad to read that our Judy McLaughlin of West Paris has joined the staff at the Citizen. We know she will do a fine job.

Calling at Lawrence's: Joe Kallnowski, Margaret Stevens, Arnold Coffin, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Odell Heath.

"Root" and Doris Lawrence visited Roger and Brenda LaCroix.

Gould nordic program adds cross-country coach, new biathlon facility

U.S. National Ski Team coach Dick Taylor has accepted a position as cross-country coach at Gould Academy. Taylor's move to the four year college preparatory school comes after 10 years of working with the U.S. Ski Team in domestic development and national and international competition. Several U.S. team athletes under his tutelage will spend time at Gould for regular training visits.

Taylor will join former Biathlon Team member Kirk Siegel in furthering nordic development programs at the academy and in the region. This summer's completion of a 25-lane biathlon range on the Gould Academy cross-country trails. The facility is built to accommodate all domestic competitions, including the National Championships.

Recent renovation of the academy 30-meter ski jump under the supervision of Jumping Program Director John Wright completes this year's nordic facility additions, although a lighted ski course is under construction.

In recent years, Gould skiers have competed at the Junior Olympics and on international competition tours, and the cross-country and jumping teams have been top contenders in the New England Championships. Taylor, Siegel, and Wright are enjoying the prospect of developing junior junior skiers in a program where excellence in skiing is the goal, but where athletics, academics, and social and extra-curricular activities are all part of a balanced school life.

This year, five Gould "A" Team skiers will first hit the snow during their ten-day Thanksgiving vacation, at a cross-country camp in West Yellowstone, Montana. In the meantime, Gould will host the U.S. Biathlon Association Elite Junior Camp, Aug. 15-22, directed by National Team coaches and assisted by Siegel.

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

I'm sure everyone has realized the heat and humidity of this last week. One evening I sat on the lawn alone to enjoy the breeze which had found its way across my lawn, badly in need of mowing.

The sun would soon go down behind the broken, rough backed line of the western hills; and the sky would be a water of flames.

Shadows pulled back against the mountains.

The trees in my section put on a striking pageant from May until November for the leaves have everything it takes to arrest attention: action, color, mass, and sound effects.

This night they raised flexing branches of green against the sky. Each kind has its own individual motion; a net result of the size or length of stems and how they are attached.

The wind was just a restless breeze as it moved up the valley.

The day had begun gray and tight (fisted, as a bud on a winter tree, but tonight had changed and was like a tiny flower which I had watched expand to color and beauty in a bowl of water.

As the sun moved the sky presented a show of bewitching beauty.

Serenity spread across the woodland and I entered my house which was framed in the remnants of night.

On Thursday, Ann and her mother, Fay Holt and I spent the day in Standish with Sally and Mary Holt. David joined us at the beach during his noon hour break. Then we swam and went shopping, before coming home.

Callers on Dorothy Curtis were: Gloria Curtis, Norway; Evelyn Helkkinen, Mexico; Donald Bowman, Canton; Alton Kimball, West Paris; Mildred Bowman, Hebron; Fred and Rena Curtis, Eva Felton, local;

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holt, Ricky and Jenny; David and Sally and Mary Holt were at the farm to visit their parents, Leonas and Fay, and sister, Ann, over the weekend.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Curtis, visitors were: Karen Green and son Tyler, Colista Cogswell and son, Troy, Nick Strait of Freeport; Ray and Gloria Curtis, Norway; Arthur and Ada Cogswell, Brunswick.

Robert and David Holt finished moving things from David's home in Dexter to his home in Standish on Saturday.

About 35 friends and family attended a housewarming party last Sunday for Carleton and Pam Rugg at their new to them and larger mobile home here. His mother, Mrs. Christine Kimball, made and decorated the cake, and the rest of the trapper.

John and Sherry Hindman of Windham were guests Friday and Saturday nights of Mrs. Elmira Doyen. Mrs. Doyen and daughter, Mrs. Connie Hindman, were in Augusta for the day Saturday and enjoyed lunch with Mrs. Marjorie Awalt.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kallis were in the Boston area a few days this week for his medical checkup.

I spent several days over the weekend with my brother Leroy Hunter and family in Unity. While there I attended my 60th high school class reunion at Mt. View High School, and visited the Unity Historical Society. I also invited relatives in Skowhegan and China Lake and Madison. While riding with my brother's family in his Model A Ford open touring car we got caught in a very heavy thunder, lightning, hail and rain storm. We pulled into a driveway and waited while trees and branches blew around us.

Mrs. Norma Salway with Mrs. Jolene Shimamura spent the day Tuesday with Mrs. Wendy Driscoll and friend in Wilton.

Mrs. Christine Kimball went to Monmouth Wednesday to visit her sister. Together they visited an old friend on North Whitefield.

Norma and I were in Rumford Thursday morning and went to Portland Friday for my medical appointment. We enjoyed luncheon with the Bernie Gatchells in Old Orchard Beach Village. Brandon Salway returned home with us for the weekend.

Mrs. Elmira Doyen and Mrs. Connie Hindman were in Gorham, N.H., Friday evening and enjoyed supper there.

One of the best things people can have up their sleeves is a funny bone.

This is your Chamber of Commerce

Each week, this column will spotlight a different member of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce. The purpose is to give some understanding about the various fields of endeavor of the Chamber members.

Kendall Insurance, Inc., has been a member of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce for many years. It has been serving western Oxford County through many transformations in the area. The corporation has as its motto The Service Agency and offers a complete line of insurance products to its clients from its office at 47 Church Street.

Established in 1960 and incorporated in 1979, Kendall Insurance has grown from a "one man" operation to one with five employees. Ronald C. Kendall is president and specializes in life and pension sales in the financial services area of the agency. Scott A. Dennis, a vice president of the corporation, directs his efforts to the sales and service of commercial and personal lines. David P. Salway, is a licensed agent handling in-office sales as well as serving as agency bookkeeper. Doreen Johnson, CIC, a licensed general lines agent, is the agency manager and coverage specialist.

Freda Davis joined the agency in 1984 as receptionist, typist and claim's service representative.

Scott Dennis was recently asked if the rapid changes here in Bethel were having their effect on business for Kendall Insurance. We are in a major growth area and now that construction of commercial properties as well as single family units are on the increase, Scott feels that the insurance business will certainly be favorably affected. "Change is inevitable," Scott said, "it will impact us, too."

Among those named to the Dean's List for the spring semester at the University of Maine at Farmington, were Mary Ellen Greeke of Andover, and Douglas John Hoy of Bethel.

Bethel

The Bethel Senior Citizens will hold their monthly meeting Wednesday, Aug. 12, at the Country Way Restaurant in South Paris. Business meeting at 11 a.m. with lunch at noon. A speaker will follow the luncheon.

Descendants of Asa and Susan McKeen Keniston met Sunday, July 26, for a family reunion at the Edson Staples cottage on Keewaydin Lake, East Stoneham. Four generations were represented. Attending from Bethel were Mr. and Mrs. Earlon Keniston, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keniston.

Shane Hiebert has returned to his house in Johnston R.J., following a week visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Walker, Almee DesRoches, Fred Bauer and Melissa Walker joined them for a family cookout on Sunday evening.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keniston this past week were grandchildren, Shelby and Josie McKnight, who have lived the past two years in Osan, South Korea.

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Ted McKnight (Rachel Keniston) arrived Friday to spend some time before returning to Sacramento, Calif., where he will be stationed at McClellan Air Force Base.

Friends and relatives are invited to attend an open house to be held Saturday, Aug. 8, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Legion Hall, Vernon Street, Bethel, in honor of Klara Aas Hansen, her two sons, Kai and Willy Aas Hansen, and her granddaughter, Astri, from Herefoss, Norway. FREE GUIDED TOUR AT HEDGEHOG HILL FARM AUG. 16

On Sunday, Aug. 16, Hedgehog Hill Farm in Buckfield will hold its annual celebration of flowers and gardens with a series of free guided tours during a gathering entitled A Sunday in the Gardens.

Four years ago, the owners decided to make their production gardens available to the public so that visitors could browse and learn about the numbers of vegetables, herbs and flowers that are interplanted in the field opposite their farm shop. The articles on the farm that appeared in Downeast and Horticulture magazines caused a number of people from all over the country to write, call and visit. In response, it was decided to establish an annual event with tours, refreshments, and, certainly for the past two years, with good weather.

The tours are free of charge, and if visitors wish to bring lunch and picnic on the grounds, they are welcome to.

From the Bethel Area
Chamber of Commerce

The Chamber of Commerce wishes to extend a great big thank you to all who helped out with Mollycoddle Day. It was a very busy but successful day for all of us and we feel that we have been truly successful in promoting it! Especial thanks are due Anita and Bob Remington who had a leading role in helping with the road race; and to the outing club for their guidance.

Another great activity to thank folks for was the Spanish Exchange luncheon. A hearty thanks to Becky Kendall for organizing it and donating the use of her camp—as well as all those who cooked and provided food or supplies.

We finally have mailed out the Blue Cross/Blue Shield information to all chamber members. If you are interested in finding out more about the group policy call the office—we'll get a packet out to you or answer your questions.

Aug. 23 is Girl Scout Support Week. All chamber members have received a mailing on it and the chamber encourages all of you to participate! If you don't want to donate per unit of business please make a set donation. It is a worthy cause and you'll get a case of Girl Scout cookies in return!

The Big E Committee is busy preparing to attend the Springfield Expo which will be held from Sept. 16 to 27. This is an ideal way to promote our area and an exciting opportunity. We plan on selling Maine Woodsmen's Weathersticks again.

The executive board met on Monday, Aug. 3, to discuss these and other issues. The next regular board meeting will be held Thursday, Aug. 13, at 7:30 a.m., Casco Bank, Main Street, Bethel. All are welcome to attend!

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the monthly meeting will be held on Thursday, Aug. 6, at 7:30 p.m., in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House. Featured speaker for the evening will be Norm Buttrick who will make a slide presentation on the numerous archaeological projects throughout Maine in which he has been involved. Anyone interested in attending this meeting is cordially invited to do so.

The society's summer heritage festival, the 8th annual Sudbury Canada Days, will be held on Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 8 and 9. Sudbury Canada was Bethel's original name in use between 1768 and 1796. The name is derived from the fact that soldiers from Sudbury, Mass., received compensation for their service in the ill-fated expedition to Canada in 1690 by receiving land in the District of Maine. "Sudbury" refers to the town in Massachusetts of the original grantees and "Canada" designates the campaign in which they were involved. Ernest H. Knight in his book The Origin and History of Raymondstown records 19 "Canada" towns in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts: Beverly-Canada (now Weare, N.H.), Canada to Dantzik (now Bow, N.H.), Salem Canada (now Lyndenborough, N.H.), Ipswich Canada (now Winchendon, N.H.), Haywood Canada (now Peterborough, N.H.), Sylvester Canada (now Richmond, N.H.), Rowley Canada (now Rindge, N.H.), Newbury Canada (now Salisbury, N.H.), Gallup Canada (now Guilford, N.H.), Gorham Canada (now Dunbarton, N.H.), Dorchester Canada (now Ashburton, Mass.), Roxbury Canada (now Warwick, Mass.), Hingham Canada (now Chesterfield, Mass.), Weymouth Canada (now Ashfield, Mass.), Cambridge Canada (now New Boston, N.H.), Phips Canada (now Jay and Canton, Maine), Whitman Canada (now Henniker, N.H.), Newton Canada (now Alstead, N.H.), and Sudbury Canada (now Bethel, Maine).

Sudbury Canada Days is intended to focus on our local heritage and emphasize old-time pastimes. Festivities will begin on Saturday, Aug. 8, at 1 p.m. with the annual children's parade under the general supervision of Sue Howe. The theme this year is characters from fables and fairy tales. As usual the judging will be in four categories, cleverest, funniest, prettiest and judge's choice. Judges this year are Margaret Davis, Jane Hosterman and Marvin Owinga. All participants are urged to assemble in front of the Dr. Moses Mason House at 12:45 so that they can be registered. Also opening at 1 p.m. will be the annual flower show in the period rooms of the Dr. Moses Mason House. Anyone wishing to provide a bouquet is cordially invited to do so. The film series this year will include "Dawn of America" (focusing on the early history of Maine), "Hammerman at Williamsburg" (blacksmithing), "All But Forgotten" (Holman Francis Day: Filmmaker) (focuses on the life of a Maine filmmaker) and "The Cooper's Craft" (making barrels). A wide variety of old-time children's games will be featured after the children's parade, supervised by Gordon and Mary Gillies. A number of craftspeople will be on hand to demonstrate and exhibit their talents and products. Helen Morton will once again supervise the local art show on the lawn of Ned Hastings beside the Dr. Moses Mason House. Sally Robinson and Ruth Grover have organized a period fashion show and exhibit at the Harmons House. The exhibit will be open from 1-4 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday. The fashion show will be in the Harmons House gardens beginning at 2 p.m. on Saturday. There will also be a local history book fair in which several Oxford County historical societies have been invited to participate. A food sale sponsored by the Middle Intervale Meeting House Society will be held on the grounds.

Sunday's activities will commence at 9 a.m. with the old fashioned church service at the West Parish Congregational Church. From 1-4 p.m. the flower show, art show, historical film series and the period fashion exhibit will continue. Anyone wishing further information, should call the society office at 824-2908.

At 2 p.m. on Saturday, the badminton tournament under the supervision of Mary Beth Bayerlein will begin as will the croquet competition directed by Charles Raymond. The horseshoe tournament will be directed this year by Earlon Keniston and Clifford Hillier. Also beginning at 2 p.m. will be the annual ice cream eating contest.

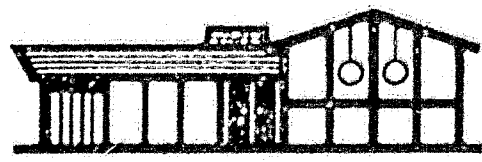

At 4 p.m. there will be a drawing for the door prize and at 5 p.m. the log driver's bean supper will be held, followed at 7 p.m. with the old time variety show, which will conclude Saturday's events.

'87 program Aug. 11

The Sebago-Long Lake Chamber Music Festival will conclude its 1987 summer session on Tuesday, Aug. 11, with an 8 p.m. concert in the Bridgton Academy chapel, North Bridgton.

After the intermission Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 2 and Tchaikovsky's "Souvenir de Florence," Op. 70 for string sextet will conclude the concert.

Several guest artists will be heard during the concert. Making their first appearance with the S-L-L.R.C.M. Also appearing and well known for their talents are Randolph Bowman, flute; Paul Wolfe, violin; Nancy Beacham, viola; Laurie Kennedy, viola; James Kennedy, cello; Judith Pence, oboe; and Audley Greene, harp-sichord.

WESTERN MAINE BOARD OF REALTORS
MULTIPLE LISTING SERVICE

What is Multiple Listing Service?

Read On:

Multiple Listing Service is the modern way to buy or sell a home. It is offered through the cooperative efforts of the member offices of the Board of Realtors. Information on available homes is pooled to afford a larger and better market place for both home buyers and sellers. You select the Realtor of your choice. Through MLS, he can tell you about not only the homes he is handling, but those of all other member offices. As a buyer, you have the widest possible selection. As a Seller, you have many Realtor-MLS offices and their salesmen working for YOU!

When buying a home-your MLS Realtor can help you identify the type of home in the location and price range you desire. Because of MLS, he will have many homes from which to choose. This saves you time, effort and money. Once you have made your selection, he can assist you in arranging the necessary financing and other details. Best of all, you pay no extra or special fees for these valuable services.

When selling your home-list your Realtor advises you of present market conditions, then he examines your property and carefully lists all its features. Then a photograph is taken of your home. The information and the picture are duplicated and sent to all member MLS offices. Your Realtor will expertly promote your home and offer suggestions on how to increase its sales value and show it to best advantage. Your home will be shown to more qualified potential buyers, therefore bringing top market values to you. All of this results in a prompt profitable sale.

You deal with qualified salesmen—all salesmen associated with the Multiple Listing Service are required to strictly adhere to the national, state and local board Code of Ethics. They must also meet the Licensing requirements of their state. They further have the opportunity to attend frequent seminars and instruction programs as well as real estate appraising courses. These are professional people who, through training and experience, are best qualified to assist you in the sale or purchase of your home.

CHOOSE AN MLS MEMBER IN YOUR AREA TO OBTAIN MAXIMUM EXPOSURE OF YOUR PROPERTY.

Refreshments and cake were served after opening baby Devon's gifts. Those attending were Myrtle Sylvester of Hanover; Charlotte Blodgett of Stratford, N.H.; Marion Ingerson of Jefferson N.H.; Ivy Robinson, Yvonne Robinson with Billy Jo and Christopher, of Albany; and Belissa Morin, Holly Corriveau and Belinda, and Bethany Corriveau, all of Gilead.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ferrand, Hiedi and Todd, have been visiting his mother, Mrs. Anita Ferrand, this past week.

Now you see 'em—now you don't—new management at our diner, Mike Gordon and workers, Lisa and Shiela. Good luck.

Mrs. Mary Cole has been on a mining excursion to upper New York state with a friend.

Mr. and Mrs. Yves Corriveau took a trip to Plattsburgh, N.Y., and down to Bar Harbor over his vacation.

Darlene Corriveau and daughter have employment at Town and Country.

Bev Corriveau and I attended the TOPS picnic held annually at Ruby Cooledge's in East Bethel one evening last week.

Jessica Cantello of Portland has been a guest of her grandmother, Louise Loring this past weekend.

Many from town attended the memorial services for Cy Cole held at the Pleasant Valley Bible Church in West Bethel.

Presidential candidates always have campaign slogans. Amused at some I ran across yesterday, I'd like to share them with you along with my most humble comments.

"A full dinner pail,"—William McKinley.

"A log cabin and hard cider," pushed William Henry Harrison to the top.

And of course the Republican campaign slogan in 1932—"A chicken in every pot."

As candidates are already testing the (political) waters around the nation perhaps some of these would be winners, and seriously considered, along these Old advertising slogans are also interesting.

"Children cry for it."

"A room and bath for a dollar and a half."

"Ask the man who owns one."

So wouldn't it be great if there were a non-addictive drug-free surgeon general approved, no preservative, calorie free tonic manufactured in our so rosy future, available at cheap motels and status quo establishments alike that would "Take the beast out of the man."

Most sought after, everyone would cry for it—if you don't believe me.

"Ask the woman who owns one!!"

P.S. Surely, Tammy Baker and Fawn Hall must just approve of it. (I hear you—call in Jessica Hahn.)

Another week of the summer is gone and July must over. Where does the time go. Before we know it, the children will be back in school for the oncoming year. It doesn't seem possible that time has gone by so fast this summer!

Went down to Lewiston last week for a few days, with my daughter and family. Courtney had been up for a few days and as I was to have work done at the hospital down there, I went down to visit and be there for the work to be done.

They live on the second floor and was it ever hot! Didn't seem as though I could get my breath, it was so humid. Fans, nor the small air conditioner that they have, seemed to make any difference.

There wasn't much sleep to be had in those conditions. What a relief it was to have the weather change on Saturday! It did give one a chance to breathe a little better. Wyonna brought me home on Saturday morning and returned home to do loads of work waiting for her.

Sunday was a big day for all of us. We went to the Rowe reunion which is a reunion on our mother's side of the family. The early morning thunder showers cleared the weather so it turned out to be a beautiful day. However, those showers were real bangers here. Lightning came in and rang the phone which it hasn't done before since we moved here in '83.

It also struck nearby and what a feeling in the air! Of course, we had lost our power the day before for about three hours. It looked to us as though someone hit a pole up on Elm Hill, and that is the way our electricity comes to us so we were out for a while. Glad the days are longer than in the winter so we didn't have to live lights much before we went to bed.

It acted as though we might get a shower Sunday afternoon while at the reunion in Oxford but only got a few sprinkles of rain. Not even enough to make anyone go inside. The wind did come up and blow a little and bothered the canvas covering that had been put up for a picnic table or whatever.

Guess it was used mostly for folks to sit under and chat. We had a real good time seeing friends and relatives we don't see any other time of year. Last year there were about 90 at the reunion but this year there were only about 77. Better luck next year, we hope.

Monday turned out to be an odd day where weather was concerned. First rain then the sun would come out and then rain again, especially during the afternoon. We had gone to North Bridgton for me to see the doctor and in the afternoon, Russell pulled the pea vines that were so diseased. We don't know what it was but the peas didn't look good at all. Was lucky to get what I did to freeze. Now we look to the rest of the garden to see what will produce for us. String beans are looking good but Russell had to replant them so they are later than they should have been had the first crop done anything.

Carrot tops are tall and bountiful but the carrots still small. Squash vines are spreading all around so hope to have lots of those but one never knows till the time of harvest them. Russell has some tomato plants, we should be over loaded with tomatoes. Some of the plants stand over three feet tall. Other things are doing well, so far and we hope they continue to do so.

Helen Strout came up Monday to get some help with studies. She plans to go to school again this year to better herself and I offered to help in any way I can. She is my foster daughter and means a great deal to me. I helped her in her schooling last year and it was most gratifying to see the improvements she made.

Barbara Yates came Tuesday morning and she and Peggy headed for Lewiston for the day. While at the Promenade Mall, they had car trouble and couldn't get the car to start. Barb called Bryce and he went down and found the battery terminal was corroded and after cleaning that, the car started and they came home all right. They didn't get to go everywhere they had wanted but that is life.

Myrna and Bernard White came up to call on her mother in the evening and Myrna brought me some plant pots that she didn't want. She has been cleaning out and wanted to get rid of them and knew I could use them so gave them to me for which I am most grateful.

I wasn't any good yesterday as I have been having one of my good spells of fibrositis or something. During the afternoon, Peggy and Russell were in town getting his truck fixed and getting a sticker on it. I had an appointment to see the doctor to see if I could get some help from the pain and they got home just in time to take me to North Bridgton for my appointment. The top rib on my left side was out of place. Believe me it had been painful and still is. Nothing out of the ordinary, though, it seems to happen quite frequently.

Cloudy this morning as I type this writing and cool. After the shot for pain last night, I still feel a little doozy so guess I've said about enough. I would like to remind folks that there will be that nice Variety show at Bryant Pond, Aug. 13. It will benefit the Grange as well as the Historical Society and from all I have heard, it should be a good show. Variety really will be there. A variety of different acts that are to be enjoyed by one and all. Be sure to reserve that date and come see the show. Take care and everyone have a good week.

Friday Flicks at the Bethel Library

Friday Flicks is a movie program for children at the Bethel Library. Every "show" begins at 7 p.m., and last approximately 45 minutes. Parents are welcome, too; in fact, if children are under school age the library would appreciate that a parent, babysitter, or other adult accompany them. Come and enjoy movies on the big screen!

The remainder of this summer's Friday Flick schedule is as follows:

Aug. 7: Where the Wild Things Are; Tchou, Tchou; Oh Brother, My Brother.
Aug. 14: Strega Nona; Clay; The Ugly Duckling;
Aug. 21: Seadream; Magic Balloons; One Kitten for Kim.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas our Heavenly father has in his infinite wisdom called our sister, Rowena Dunham, from earthly duties to the Great Grange above, and whereas she will be greatly missed by the members of Franklin Grange and all who knew her:

Resolved that we extend our sincerest sympathy to the bereaved family, and let us remember she is not dead, just gone to a better life.

Resolved that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our records, and a copy sent to the family of our late sister as a token of our sympathy.

Maine Kimballs to hold annual reunion in Bethel

A reunion of Maine Kimballs is again to be held at the Bethel Historical Society's Dr. Moses Mason House on Broad Street, Sunday, Aug. 23, with registration at 10 a.m.

Anyone with a Kimball grandparent is welcome. Richard Kimball who came to Ipswich, Mass., in 1636 is considered ancestor in common of nearly all Kimballs in the United States. In 1968 the first National Reunion planned by Elizabeth Carter of Bethel and some Kimball cousins from Bridgton and Rumford, was held at South Bridgton. A Kimball Family Association was subsequently formed and incorporated in 1972. National Reunions have been held since 1968 with the 20th being held this year at Governor Dummer Academy, Byfield, Mass., the first weekend in August. Some states like Maine have held several annual reunions also, and initiated by Kimballs resident in the state.

The previous Maine reunions have been chaired by Gordon Kimball of Gray. This the third to be held in Bethel, is to be chaired by Stuart Martin of Rumford, and plans for the reunion are being made by Elizabeth Mason Carter assisted by Stanley Howe, director of the Bethel Historical Society, who is a Kimball also. Mr. Martin and his late wife, Estella, were very actively involved in the early years of the National KPA.

There will be held available on researching family lines. National co-chairmen, the Col. George H. Kimballs of Kittery, and Mrs. Agnes Haines, Bethel, Bethel Historical Society and a Kimball will give their expertise on this.

Miss Grace Kimball, National Historian, will again bring her large and very interesting exhibit of Kimball pictures, papers and clippings.

Those attending may bring their lunches and enjoy eating either inside or on spacious pleasant grounds. Coffee and refreshments will be available all morning, and punch all day.

As the Maine K's are not organized and pay no dues or registration fees; those attending may make a donation towards reunion day expenses.

In the afternoon as chairman, Stuart Martin will conduct a meeting and also give a talk on Rumford Kimball families. He is the author of Rumford's history, published in 1980 entitled "New Penacook Folks," which contains extensive genealogical information.

A large attendance is expected at the Aug. 23 reunion. Information may be obtained from either Elizabeth Carter (tel. 1-207-836-2343) or Stanley Howe (tel. 1-207-824-2908).

SAD #44 literacy initiatives

The Literacy Task Force for SAD #44 Adult and Community Education met on July 22 at Telstar Regional High School to formulate an action plan for the coming year. The Task Force is a subcommittee of the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education Advisory Council, according to Adult Education Director Cathy Newell. The group decided to sponsor a Literacy Awareness Month during October 1987 with a number of activities and events planned. This will follow the public awareness activities of Project Literacy US (PLUS) which will commence with the beginning of the school year.

Projects planned by the SAD #44 group include Literacy Volunteer Training, scheduled for the first two weeks of October in cooperation with SAD #17, to be held in West Paris, a placemat and poster project which will provide information on literacy services to the community, Improvisational Theatre Group Training to train a group of local people who will be available to perform on the theme of literacy for group meetings and schools, a Business Breakfast in conjunction with the Workplace Literacy event planned nationwide by PLUS, a special focus on reading in cooperation with area librarians recognition of past and present adult education students and tutors, and use of Literacy Volunteer tutors at Telstar middle and high schools. Task Force members have assumed responsibility for individual projects, and will meet next on Aug. 18 at Telstar at 7 p.m. to report progress.

Anyone who would like further information about the Literacy Task Force or who would like to help with any of the projects may contact the Adult and Community Education office, 824-2780.

M.I.M.S. TO HOLD QUILT SHOW AUG. 29

The Middle Intervale Meeting House Society will hold a quilt show from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 29, at the meeting house. It is hoped that this will become an annual event.

The most recent restoration of the meeting house was completed to further the goal of community wide use. The quilt show will focus on a craft practiced locally, but not always seen publicly. This showing will offer quilters of western Maine a rare chance to display their art.

The Middle Intervale Meeting House Society would like this to become an annual event. Those quilters interested in sharing their designs should contact Deborah Michaud at 824-2364 after 7 p.m.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, is endeavoring to bring frequently to you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

In observance of Sudbury Canada days, we are pleased to welcome to this column the Rev. Charles Frost, former pastor of the West Parish Church, Bethel. The following thoughts were first shared on the occasion of the final service of the parish in the original meeting house, Feb. 27, 1848:

God dwells not in temples made with hands. He does not cherish idolatrous or superstitious resorts for any object or purpose on earth. God may be worshipped with acceptance, if circumstances required it, in the open air, or in the most rudely constructed edifice. It is not so much the place as the feeling that renders our worship right and acceptable. God looks into the heart—he requires truth in the inward soul and those who worship Him, must worship Him in spirit and in truth.

We should be grateful to God, that He condescends to record His name on earth and has graciously promised to be with His people and to aid and accept them in their attempts to worship Him. Let us call to mind the delightful seasons we have here enjoyed, the benefits we have here received, the vows we have here made only to heighten our sense of delight and obligations to God, and aim to enter upon His service hereafter with more fidelity, meekness, faith and Christian affection and more entire consecration of all our professions and talents to Him.

How soon brethren shall we done with earth! Yes, Christians, how soon will our Heavenly Father call us away from every earthly sanctuary to enter upon the pure and holy worship in the sanctuary above here there will be no more removals—no more mistakes, no separations and no more changes except from glory to glory by the spirit of the Lord!

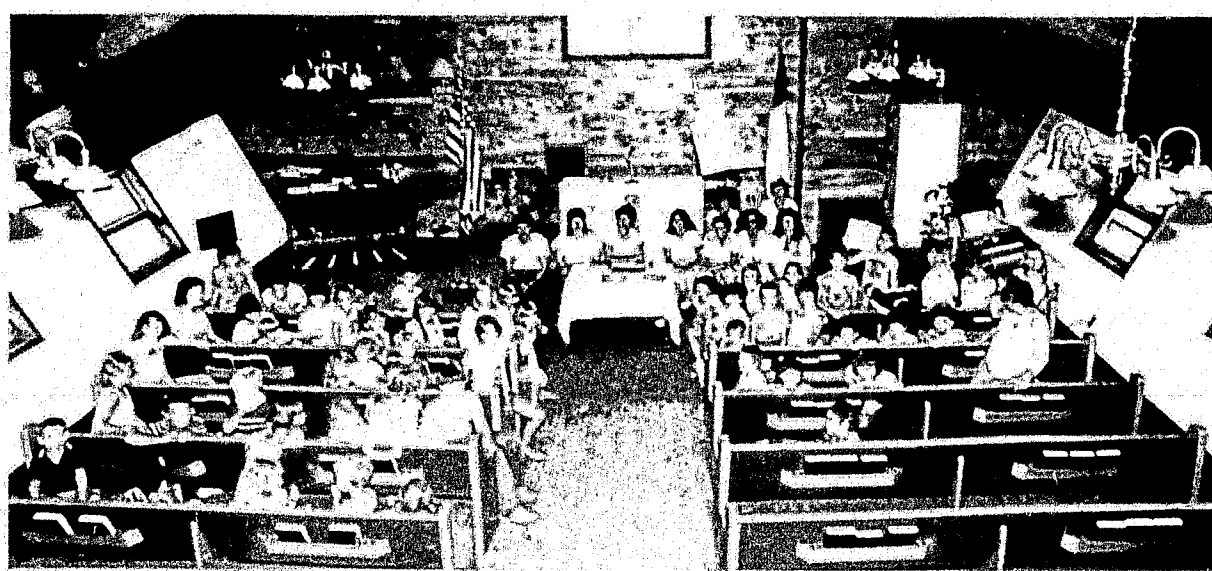

ELLINGWOOD REUNION

The 62nd reunion of the descendants of Asa and Florilla Dunham Elingwood will be held Sunday, Aug. 9, 1987, at Howard and Lolo Elingwood's camp on Pleasant Pond, West Sumner.

In case of rain it will be held at Community Hall in North Paris. The Old Farmers Almanac states it will not rain on Aug. 9, so the beach should be a good place to be.

SWAIN IS PARTICIPANT IN SUMMER CHAMBER MUSIC
PROGRAM AT BATES COLLEGE

Ross Swain, of West Shore Road, Roxbury Pond, is participating in the summer chamber music program conducted by the Atlanta Virtuosi at Bates College in Lewiston.

An accomplished pianist, Swain attends daily seminars, coaching sessions and rehearsals under the tutelage of various members of the Virtuosi, recognized as one of the foremost chamber ensembles in the country. Providing individual instruction to Swain is renowned concert pianist Frank Glazer, guest artist with the Virtuosi.

The public will have the opportunity to attend a recital by Swain and other program participants on Thursday, Aug. 6, at 7 p.m. at the Olin Arts Center Concert Hall. A variety of chamber works will be performed on strings, woodwinds and piano by students drawn to the Bates music institute from across the United States, Canada, South America and Europe.

The event is open to the public free of charge.

The Atlanta Virtuosi chamber music program will conclude on Friday (Aug. 7) with the last of the Georgian ensemble's five-concert summer series. Set for 8 p.m. at the Olin concert hall, the performance will be highlighted by the baroque masterpiece "Four Seasons" by Antonio Vivaldi. The group will also present Bartok's "Contrasts" and Mozart's Piano Quartet, K.285.

Tickets, at $6 ($3 for students and senior citizens) are available by contacting the Olin Arts Center Box Office at 786-8135. Advance reservations are suggested.

The Atlanta Virtuosi summer chamber music program is made possible in part by a grant from the Bettermont Fund, created by the will of William Bingham, 2nd, of Bethel, which has endowed a fund at Bates College to support the performing arts.

CONSTRUCTION IS PROGRESSING on the Brookside Condominiums, near D.W. McKee's, at Sunday River Ski Resort.

Sunday River expansion on-schedule for November opening

Sunday River Ski Resort's 1987 $2.8 million capital development, the largest expansion at any northern resort this summer, is on-schedule for an anticipated early November opening date.

Five new trails have been completed, bringing the total of inter-connecting trails to 56. "Top Gun" and "Right Stuff" which descend from the summit of Barker Mtn. will offer advanced skiers new terrain. The new Little White Cup area at D.W. McKee's restaurant with the advanced "Tempest" and "Jibe" trails and the novice "Roadrunner" slope, will provide ski terrain for all ability levels.

The Sunday River Express, Maine and New Hampshire's first detachable quad chairlift is undergoing final site preparation for the installation of the drive station. The drive station for the Little White Cup fixed grip quad chairlift has been installed. Line towers are expected to be flown by helicopter into place by mid August, with completion of both lifts set for early October.

Construction has also started on the Barker Mtn. base lodge. The 8,400 square foot addition will double the size of the existing building with emphasis being placed on expanded cafeteria seating and serving areas, adding over 200 seats, and new restroom facilities. A larger Ski Sports ski shop and ski patrol aid station are planned for the expanded lodge.

This summer's on-mountain expansion will exceed $12 million.

CAR ENTERS BETHEL HOUSE

Slightly after midday last Sunday, Roger Hansson, of the Bethel House, was startled to hear a loud crash in back of the apartment he shares with his sister, Amy. When he went to investigate, he found the back wall of the living room. In right outside the wall was the front bumper of an automobile, and the rest of the automobile right there, too.

The car, belonging to Stephen and Sue Wheeler, of Bethel, had reportedly come downhill from Charlie's Place—where it had been parked—jumped the Elm Street curb and plunged down the embankment in back of the Bethel House. The hurtling automobile then sheared off a post supporting the second-floor porch before coming to a stop partially inside the Hansson living room.

The car, which suffered an estimated $2,000 damage, was pulled away by a four-wheel drive pickup. Damage to the Bethel House was estimated at $3,000. There were no injuries. A temporary patch was placed over the hole in the wall until permanent repairs are made.

BETHEL. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Schuster have returned to Palisades Park, N.J., after spending two weeks with her parents, Ken and "Duff" Brooks.

There will be another food sale at the Bethel IGA on Aug. 15, benefit of the Hunt's Corner Cemetery.

Former 'Rockette' to open dance school in Bethel

Barbara Gasser has announced that she will open a dance studio this fall in Bethel. She will be teaching classes in tap, ballet, and jazz for children, and will also offer adult classes in dance, musical comedy and basic ballroom dance. Classes will be held at the Lions Club building on the corner of Main and Chapman Streets. Registration is scheduled for Aug. 31, from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. and from 5 until 7 p.m.

Barbara began her dance training with her grandmother, Hazel Boone, then continued with her aunt, Sandra, director of the Hazel Boone Studios of Dance Education, in Massachusetts. She became Sandra's apprentice and then a member of the faculty. Further studies included training in New York City with Luigi, Peter Gerson, Paul Draper, June Taylor and Matt Malton. Membership in the Dance Teachers Club of Boston, afforded her the opportunity to study with many other famous teachers.

Barbara became a member, and danced with the famed Radio City Music Hall "Rockettes" for six years. She went on to do a Broadway show and television work. She returned to teaching dancing in Boston, before retiring to raise a family.

More recently, she has been involved in community theater groups in Maine and Florida. A former resident of Bethel, she has resided in Florida for the past five years. She has choreographed such shows as "Oklahoma," "Carousel," "The Fantasticks," and "Penny Girl."
